We at Hart Davis Hart are thrilled to present the following selection of Burgundy, Rhône and assorted other vinous treasures which come courtesy of a significant and knowledgeable collector. A repeat consignor with HDH over the years, for this Celebration of Burgundy auction he has selected a truly extraordinary parcel, featuring the biggest and brightest names of the Côte d'Or. The winemakers included in the group convey that this collector has his finger on the pulse of the most sought-after wines to come out of Burgundy, from reigning nobility to up-and-coming stars.

For reds, notable highlights include 1985 Clos Vougeot, René Engel; 1990 Bonnes-Mares and 1990 Clos de la Roche from Domaine Dujac; and 1991 Charmes-Chambertin, Vieilles Vignes, Jacky Truchot, not to mention ample quantities of Rousseau, Roumier, Mugnier and Arnoux-Lachaux spanning the top vintages of the 21st century. Mouth-watering whites include 1999 Meursault, Les Perrières, Coche-Dury; a complete vertical of Hubert Lamy's Criots-Bâtard-Montrachet, Cuvée Haute Densité 2013 through 2020; six bottles of 2011 Meursault, Les Narvaux, Domaine d'Auvenay; and 2020 Chevalier-Montrachet, Domaine Leflaive. Bernard-Bonin, Lamy-Caillat and Anne Boisson all represent the tremendously talented new generation producing dazzling whites today.

A judiciously-curated range of Rhône Valley wines includes names such as Jamet, Clape, Verset, Chave, Trollet, Juge, Allemand and Rayas. The collection is made complete by choice vintages of Clos Rougeard, Cédric Bouchard, Monfortino and Dominus.

The wines in this offering were sourced with care and stored in pristine temperature- and humidity-controlled conditions. Bid with utmost confidence.

THE WORLD-CLASS WINES OF AN ALL-AMERICAN

The collector of the group that follows discovered wine thanks to a blind tasting of bottles ranging from $10 to $500, where the surprising delight of the $10 bottle set him on a journey of discovery. He loved learning the history and traditions surrounding wine as well as the memories forged over great bottles with the right food and company. Encounters with wine while traveling the world as a professional athlete helped to solidify his long-term goal to collect, once he had the funds and time to pursue it. He relished owning pieces of history and appreciated the love and passion that went into bottles which might be enjoyed decades later.

This global curiosity is on display in the comprehensive nature of the collection. Though it spans many continents, regions and producers, the unifying themes are excellence and producers at the top of their game—attributes easily understood by this athlete. Highlights include large formats of first growths and Pétrus; top-tier Burgundy from vintages poised to drink well over the next decade; many vintages of Rayas; and magnums of Italian superstars Roagna and Masseto.

The wines in this collection were purchased from trusted retailers and reputable auction houses and stored in a breathtaking, state-of-the-art residential cellar. Bid with confidence and enjoy.

THE ORION COLLECTION

Hart Davis Hart is proud to present The Orion Collection, a highly focused offering from a long-standing California collector and friend. Anchored by an extraordinary concentration of wines from Domaine Leroy and Domaine d'Auvenay—sourced directly from the domaines—this collection represents one of the most significant assemblies of these iconic producers to appear at auction, complemented by a select group of benchmark Burgundian estates.

As is often the case, the wife in this collecting couple is the tastemaker, and her palate's evolution toward Burgundy became the driving force behind the cellar. A chance introduction led to a formative trip through Burgundy in the company of a seasoned wine professional, including a visit to Domaine Leroy. Tasting Musigny 2013 from barrel along with a range of striking village wines, proved to be a turning point. This experience was paired with time in the vineyards observing the vines being traditionally tilled by horse—an increasingly rare practice that left a lasting impression and deepened the collectors' appreciation for the rigor and philosophy behind these wines.

From that moment forward, the collectors acquired every allocation of Leroy offered to them, along with wines from a select group of producers recommended by their trusted guide.

Nearly 400 bottles of Domaine Leroy and Domaine d'Auvenay, spanning vintages from 2002 through 2015, are showcased in The Orion Collection. All were sourced directly from the domaines, with original documentation retained. The breadth of vineyards represented is remarkable, including a single bottle of 2002 Criots-Bâtard-Montrachet Domaine d'Auvenay. Hailing from a minuscule 0.0637-hectare parcel within the smallest of all white Grand Cru vineyards, few wines rival the rarity of d'Auvenay's Criots.

The mythical Musigny is offered in multiple vintages—2011, 2012, 2013, and 2015—while Richebourg and Romanée-St-Vivant appear in notable depth, including six bottles of 2009 Richebourg. Simply put, a more comprehensive offering of Leroy and d'Auvenay has rarely, if ever, been presented in a Hart Davis Hart auction.

The balance of the collection includes significant holdings from Bernard Dugat-Py and Denis Mortet along with standout parcels such as a dozen bottles of 2010 Richebourg from Anne Gros, a dozen 2005 Clos de la Roche Vieilles Vignes from Domaine Ponsot, and three magnums of 2017 Bâtard-Montrachet from Morey-Coffinet.

Beyond personal enjoyment, the collection has long supported philanthropic efforts focused on children and education. Since its inception, wines from the cellar—and proceeds from their sale—have contributed to a number of meaningful charitable initiatives, making this collection not only exceptional in quality, but also purposeful in intent.

Provenance throughout is impeccable. Following acquisition, the wines were stored in a dedicated commercial facility and remained there until removal for this auction. Overall conditions are excellent, with occasional instances of seepage consistent with the known characteristics of Leroy bottlings. The rarity of this opportunity to acquire some of Burgundy's most coveted wines cannot be overstated—bid with confidence.

Excerpted from the foreword of The Queen of Burgundy, by Thomas van Zegveld:

Foreword – "The Woman and the Myth"

"The road to Vosne-Romanée climbs through low limestone walls and narrow terraces where every meter of soil carries memory. At first light, mist floats above the vines like breath. The countryside is still, marked only by the distant murmur of a tractor or a bird's call over the Côte d'Or. In this quiet geography, Lalou Bize-Leroy begins another day. She moves slowly, testing the firmness of the ground with her boots, pausing to touch a leaf or trace the contour of a branch. The gesture is neither theatrical nor nostalgic. It is observation – the single discipline that defines her life.

Her reputation in Burgundy is paradoxical: immense yet nearly invisible. She has no press office, no website, and no need for introduction. Within this narrow corridor of hills she is referred to simply as Lalou – an economy of language that signals recognition without intimacy. The wines carry her identity more powerfully than biography ever could. They are the product of a worldview in which excellence is a moral act and patience a form of intelligence...

The architecture of her wines explains the devotion they inspire. They are taut rather than rich, luminous rather than loud. Power arrives as structure, not weight. Aromas unfold with patience – violets, earth, iron, sometimes silence itself. Texture carries meaning: the paradox of concentration and transparency. Each bottle invites contemplation rather than applause. To drink one is to meet its maker in method if not in person...

Each September, before harvest, she walks her vineyards at dawn. The mist settles low; the air carries cold and promise. She tastes a grape, listens for the faint crack of ripeness between her teeth, and decides whether the season is ready. There are no laboratories, no sensors – only her senses, trained by decades of repetition. The gesture is ordinary, yet within it lies an entire philosophy: mastery through observation, control through surrender. For a moment the boundaries between woman and landscape dissolve. What remains is attention.

That attention has become Burgundy's conscience. Long after she is gone, her influence will persist – in the patience of growers, the humility of craft, the refusal to confuse fame with meaning. Her work argues that progress measured in noise is regression, and that silence, properly tended, can still produce miracles.

In the stillness of Vosne-Romanée, as fog lifts from the vines, the world she built continues to breathe. The barrels in her cellar rest like sleeping instruments, each holding a fragment of thought. To open one is to enter her rhythm: slow, exact, unyielding. The wines speak softly but unmistakably. They remind us that in a culture obsessed with immediacy, the truest form of greatness remains patience – and that sometimes the loudest voice in Burgundy is silence itself."

DAZZLING CHAMPAGNES FROM AN AMERICAN COLLECTOR

Hart Davis Hart is proud to present wines from one of the most generous and knowledgeable collectors we know. This gentleman has been a client and friend since HDH's inception, and countless bottles and laughs have been shared over meals throughout the years. This focused selection of grande marque Champagnes represents a larger and more expansive collection of the finest wines from around the world.

The wines offered here were impeccably sourced, and the majority remains in original packaging. Highlights include Bollinger R.D. 1982 in magnum, both Krug and Dom Pérignon from the stellar 1973 vintage, four vintages of Krug Clos du Mesnil, six bottles of Phillipponnat's ethereal and exceptionally rare Clos des Goisses Juste Rosé from 2000, magnums of 2002 Salon in original wood case, and a vertical of Taittinger CDC featuring both the Blanc de Blancs and rare Rosé.

Wines vintage 1996 and younger were all purchased on release; older bottlings were purchased from reputable auction houses and trusted retailers. Cheers!

THE COLLECTION OF AN EAST COAST FINANCIER

Hart Davis Hart is proud to bring to market the wines of a longtime New York collector with a passion for old and new world wines. A friend of the HDH team for many years, this generous oenophile has shared numerous extraordinary bottles and endless knowledge. Rarities from this collection include 1991 Musigny Roumier, 2005 Romanée-St-Vivant Robert Arnoux, premier cru Meursaults from Henri Germain and Bernard-Bonin, multiple dozens of 1975 Montepulciano d'Abruzzo Emidio Pepe, and several of Sine Qua Non's earliest bottlings from 2000, 2001 and 2002.

All wines were professionally stored, and most of the collection was sourced from reputable wine merchants, with around one-fifth coming directly from importers and producers and a small amount from auction houses. An overwhelming portion of the wines being offered had not been moved in many, many years before transfer to HDH for sale.

THE CELLAR OF DON CORNWELL

Hart Davis Hart is delighted to present The Cellar of Don Cornwell. A collector for many decades, Don's name is synonymous with provenance. His tireless mission to ensure the authenticity of fine and rare wine is well known, but it is worth pointing out that this tenacity has always been driven by his passion and appreciation for wine. It stands to reason that no collection has been built with more scrutiny and concern for provenance than this one.

The selection from Don's cellar offered in HDH's May auction illustrates his love for the Côte d'Or. Extraordinary verticals of Burgundian legends are found: Musigny and Chambolle-Musigny Les Amoureuses from Roumier (including three bottles of 1993 Musigny), twenty vintages of Chambertin Rousseau, Charmes-Chambertin Joseph Roty spanning twenty-five years, and Jacques-Frédéric Mugnier's top bottlings in astounding quantities (full dozens of Musigny from 1993, 1996 and 2001, for example). Don's long fascination with white Burgundy has been well documented by his annual horizontal tastings, but he has even parted ways with some of his cherished producers: Coche-Dury, Domaine Leflaive and Henri Boillot most prominently. The offering is rounded out by thoughtfully curated selections from Champagne, the Rhône Valley, Piedmont, Portugal, California and Oregon.

The Cellar of Don Cornwell is represented by Chai Consulting, whose principal Maureen Downey has worked closely with Don on the exposure of wine counterfeiting for decades. Maureen commented, "Working with Don has been one of the cleanest and easiest experiences. The man knew and tracked the provenance of every single bottle in his collection. It goes without saying that both provenance and authenticity were paramount to him as a collector and as a consumer. I am fortunate to have shared many bottles from his collection, and they have never been anything but impeccable. Chai Consulting is proud to be working with Hart Davis Hart to bring this iconic collection to market."

The collection was stored professionally in Los Angeles until transfer to Hart Davis Hart's warehouse via temperature-controlled truck. To memorialize the exceptional provenance of The Cellar of Don Cornwell, each bottle from this auction's offering bears a special sticker. These stickers will be a marker of excellence for those who encounter the wines from this collection for generations to come.

	A FINE CACHE OF FRENCH GEMS
	Hart Davis Hart is excited to represent the following lots on behalf of a repeat consignor who is a Champagne enthusiast and a generous, thoughtful and engaging individual. This impressive selection is rich with highlights from the great regions of France including blue chip Bordeaux, vintage Champagne and Rhône royalty. We find notable Burgundian producers such as Coche-Dury, Groffier, Prieuré-Roch, and Rousseau. Barolo from Sandrone and Aldo Conterno in case quantity as well as a fine array of large-format Mayacamas and Ridge Monte Bello complete the collection. All wines were sourced responsibly, many directly on release, and housed in custom-built, temperature-controlled residential storage.
